Easter Transportation in Prague

Besides some diversions, e.g. the tram diversion in Zenklova Street and the underground line C between Muzeum and Pražského povstání , Praguers need to be ready for other changes in the transport as well. The changes are basically the enforcement of holiday or weekend operation of public transportation.

ROPID announces, that due to technical reasons, timetables for holiday weekdays will not be put up at individual stops. They are available only the Internet. Those passengers, who have ordered the service sending timetables by e-mail, will automatically receive the timetables. The changes will take place from 5th April 2012 to 9th April 2012.

Thursday and Friday operation

Easter holidays in schools start on Thursday, which is also the beginning of Easter operation.

METRO

All metro lines will follow the working day – holidays timetable
ATTENTION! From Friday 6th April 2012 at about 21.00 h there will be a disruption in metro line C operation between Muzeum and Pražského povstání

TRAMS

All tram lines will follow the working day – holidays timetable
Change in intervals:
Trams no. 9, 17 and 22 – peak times 5 min., otherwise 6 min.
Other trams – peak times 10 min., otherwise 12 min.

BUSES

Most buses will follow the working day – holidays timetable (exceptions, mostly in the operation of regional buses, see notes with negative numbers in timetables)
Buses no. 182, 305, 343, 465, school buses (551–571) and school connections will not operate
Buses no. 108, 179, 225 will not serve Divoká Šárka bus stop(in Libocká Str.)
Buses no. 129, 241, 243, 318 will not serve Elišky Přemyslovny bus stop

Funicular, ferry boats and railways follow regular timetables.

Saturday operation - 7th April 2012

All means of Prague Integrated Transportation follow Saturday timetables. Several exceptions apply to the railways.

Sunday and Monday operation - 8th and 9th April 2012

All means of Prague Integrated Transportation follow Sunday timetables. Several exceptions apply to the railways, see timetables.